THE DUNLOPS ARE READY TO GO (July 17, 2000)

Perry and Helen Dunlop have sold their Cornwall home, as they prepare to move out West. The house sold at auction Saturday for $101,000, as about 70 people looked on. Perry's Father, Robert, passed away in Prince Albert, Saskatchewan on Saturday as well, and Perry said since they are leaving on Thursday, they were sad they won't be able to attend the funeral. Dunlop was the former Cornwall Police Officer credited with bringing to light an alleged pedophile ring operating in the area.

DONATIONS CALLED FOR AS DUNLOPS MOVE (July 15, 2000)

Perry and Helen Dunlop are expected to sell their home today as the family prepares to move to the west coast. Perry Dunlop is the former Cornwall police officer who first brought out the details around an alleged pedophile ring. He says he and his family are moving in order to start life over. Meanwhile a family friend, Helene Summers, says the family deserves support, and donations to Perry and family would be a nice way to show appreciation. There has been at least one going-away party for the family and Summers says everyone agrees the loss of the Dunlops is a major blow to the community.

Not guilty enough: judge

Justice acquits man he believes molested youth

By Ann Harvey

Despite saying he was "pretty sure" Harvey Joseph Latour molested a boy 35 years ago, Justice Richard Byers acquitted the 70-year-old of indecent assault. The judge said the Crown case, which resulted from the Project Truth investigation, had not been proven beyond a reasonable doubt. The two-day trial concluded Tuesday after testimony from the last two witnesses for the defence and closing arguments from both the crown and the defense. The judge said he was particularly disturbed because the complainant had said he believed Latour might have had a tattoo, probably an anchor, on one of his forearms. During his testimony Latour had rolled up his sleeves, showing no tattoo and no indication of tattoo removal. Crown counsel Alain Godin argued the complainant, who cannot be named, had testified honestly, frequently stating he simply couldn't remember. He said the courts allow more discrepancies in the testimony of children and that should extend to testimony about events that occurred during childhood. The evidence of Latour corroborated the evidence of the complainant on many points, Godin said. In his summation, Byers said he did not expect the complainant, now 48, to remember the specifics of events that occurred 35 years ago when he was 13. "I am satisfied beyond a reasonable doubt that Mr. (the complainant) was an honest and a truthful witness. "I was not impressed with Mr. Latour." The defendant showed "selective memory," the judge said. Witness credibility and reliability is important, but it is not the only requirement, he added. Identity must be clearly established too. Proof beyond reasonable doubt is the required standard, he said. "Probably guilty is not good enough," said Byers. "In my view the tattoo raises that doubt. Mr. (the complainant) just may have got the identity wrong. I don't think he did, but he might have." In an emotional interview following the trial, the complainant said he is not satisfied with the judgment. "I just can't find words for it." Godin had no comment. Johnson said the verdict was right "if you believe in the criminal justice system, that the Crown has got to prove their case beyond a reasonable doubt. "Reasonable doubt doesn't mean you didn't do it. Reasonable doubt means they didn't prove it."

"The Truth About The Project" Is That The Truth Is TOO Much To ACCEPT

New Information August 2, 2000.

ProjectTruth.com is closed.

AUTHOR'S NOTATION:

At the onset, the author's originally designed this website as a means to collect information surrounding allegations of sexual abuse against young boys committed by prominent citizens, in and around the Cornwall, Ontario, CANADA, area. The information placed on the website was intended to be information, disclosures, court proceedings and evidence that was available in the public domain, but not compiled in any formal presentation.

This website was intended to; a) provide a "formal presentation" of the facts, b) scrutinize and comment on the facts, and; c) invite feedback, further disclosures and comments in an open forum; safe from abusive and controlling intrusions.

RECENTLY; the author's modified their mandate to include "Victim Statements," "Testimonials," "Impact Statements" wherever and whenever possible, in an effort to provide a "safe-haven" where such disclosures could be made without fear of reprisals.

The author's of this website believe that, historically, perhaps 2% of victims will emerge from the dark, dreary, fearful, life of living as a prisoner to "historical-sexual abuse" victimization; and out of that number perhaps one half of one percent will ever be able to talk about the abuse or attend treatment or therapy; society simply does not currently provide adequate, informed and competent treatment/therapy which will display more favourable results. Even then, the pain does not stop there; treatment and therapy does not erase the memory's, nor the past; treatment and therapy helps to learn how to live a more productive and healthier lifestyle, while implementing ideals, strategies, understandings, philosophies, which are designed to help individual's learn how to take back "the power" which was so brutally and painfully robbed from them.

The "nailed-shut, tightly, "closed-system," (whether it be a family system, a 1 to 1 relationship system, a community system of any given size, social group system, religious system, etc; <see introduction page and "closed system">), where the sexual abuse is thriving will develop, nurture and train their victim's to be forever afraid, to be forever silent and to be forever loyal to the oppressor/abuser or their representative-agent(s). One phone call, one letter, one simple word, one stare, one "trigger" soliciting a memory "recall" will shut a victim down completely...even after months of therapy or treatment...FEAR-POWER-CONTROL!!

This website respects and honours the many contributor's who have boldly gone where all victim's fear to go...to disclosure. WE SALUTE YOU, you have taken a step.

And many contributor's have stated they have felt a peace, however small, and they felt "good" by disclosing on this website. One individual has stated that "this website will no doubt succeed where society has failed."

This website is not interested in facilitating further abuse towards these contributor's.

Since the aforementioned disclosures appeared on this website, several attempts have been initiated by "The Power's" individually or through the system they represent, to manipulate the disclosures, the individual's who have submitted them and this website.

As opposed to confronting the website "head-on" or presenting comment's though the site, the "oppressor's" have chosen to implement the method of operation that they do best and which they have used since the allegations surfaced (see the story), they intimidate, instill fear and trigger recall, to silence the talkers.

Therefore:

In the better interest's of the past contributor's to this website, we have decided to withdraw the www.projecttruth.com website. This "author's notation" will remain.

" You have grown, for they live in fear now."
